Call to Order

Chair Stausboll called the meeting to order at 4:06pm

Opening Remarks

Chair Stausboll welcomed Commissioners to the meeting. She acknowledged the advocates and councilmembers who helped moved forward the City of Sacramento’s climate resolution, and noted that the Commission has made significant progress thus far. She also provided an overview of the meeting agenda, which focuses on the foundational principles, final Community Health & Resiliency recommendations, and the preliminary Equity TAC recommendations.

Progress Report

Kate Meis provided an update on the Commission’s progress regarding the Finance TAC, Business Roundtables, and community engagement. Kate also provided a review of the updated Commission timeline.

City of Sacramento Community Outreach Activities

Remi Mendoza provided an update on the City of Sacramento’s Climate Action Plan update, noting that, at the next Commission meeting, the city will provide an overview of draft strategies and actions to present to communities through citywide workshops. The city is also engaging with youth through the Y-PLAN. In March, the city will conduct three citywide workshops in addition to ten community-based workshops in May and June.

City of West Sacramento Climate Action Plan Update

David Tilley with City of West Sacramento presented an overview of city’s timeline for their Climate & Resiliency Action Plan.

Foundational Principles

Julia Kim presented an overview of the overall concept and purpose of the foundational principles, centered around urgency, advocacy, accountability, education, and financial and economic sustainability.

Commissioner Stephanie Bray highlighted the importance of defining equity as a key component of the Commission’s work, and thanked Commissioners Laurie Litman, April Wick, Meg Arnold, Chair Stausboll, and Julia Burrows from the City of Sacramento for taking the time to have intentional discussions around equity.

Chair Stausboll motioned to move to the Equity discussion to hear initial recommendations from the Equity TAC.

Preliminary Equity Strategies

Commissioner April Wick presented an overview of the preliminary equity strategies.

1. Make decisions that ensure the fair and proportional distribution of impacts, opportunities, resources, and costs.

2. Demand inclusivity, the practice of including relevant stakeholders and communities, particularly marginalized communities and groups that have been historically left out, in the policymaking and governance process, in order to ensure fair and equitable outcome.
3. Authentically involve residents, businesses and other key stakeholders, particularly marginalized populations, as co-creators in all phases of planning and implementation.
4. Partner with cultural brokers and community-based organizations that have established relationships with marginalized communities to ensure authentic engagement; leverage existing community engagement efforts when possible.

Commissioner Bray highlighted the need to define marginalized communities and how we prioritize where to start our work.

Public Comment – Equity

Commissioners heard public comments regarding the preliminary equity strategies.

Commission Discussion and Action – Equity

The Commission engaged in a robust discussion focused on equity. Members of the public heard comments from Commissioners Hansen, Morton, Orchard, Bray, Litman, Wick, Pope-Harden, and Nelsen. Commissioners raised the importance of sufficiently funding equity work to serve as a bedrock for how plans and initiatives are conceived, proper translation of recommendations for each city given differences in distribution of resources, recognizing that there is no one solution that works for all marginalized communities as each have unique needs and assets, and more.

Public Comment – Foundational Principles

Commissioners heard public comments regarding the Foundational Principles.

Commission Discussion and Action – Foundational Principles

Commissioners discussed the final Foundational principles and important considerations for how each city should adopt the principles.

Motion to advance the Foundational Principles for inclusion in the Commission’s Recommendation

Report: Moved by Hansen and seconded by Rodriguez.

The Foundational Principles were unanimously adopted by those present. Commissioners Corless, Mohanna, Tanner, Teel and Wieser were not present for the vote.

Community Health & Resiliency (CH&R) Recommendations

CH&R TAC Leads Kathleen Ave and Dan Woo presented on the final CH&R recommendations, which are focused on Urban Greening & Forestry, Sustainable Food Systems, and Community Climate Resilience.

Public Comment – CH&R Recommendations

Commissioners heard public comments regarding the Community Health & Resiliency recommendations.

Commission Discussion and Action – CH&R Recommendations

Commissioners discussed the final CH&R recommendations and highlighted the need for authentic community engagement and community resilience.

Motion to advance the final Community Health & Resiliency Strategies for inclusion in the Commission’s Recommendation Report: Moved by Robert Nelsen and seconded by Arlen Orchard.

The final CH&R strategies were unanimously adopted by those present. Commissioners Corless, Tanner, Teel, Wieser, and Mohanna were not present for the vote.

Public Comment - General

Commissioners heard general public comments regarding the Commission’s work.

Commission Discussion - General

Commissioners emphasized the critical need to have continuity of the Commission’s work, particularly at the implementation stage. Commissioners also highlighted the need to identify immediate next steps for implementation at the community level.

Next Steps & Closing Remarks

1. Two more meetings. The next meeting, taking place March 11th, 2020 from 4:00-7:30pm at CALSTRS, will focus on work of the Finance TAC, Equity TAC recommendations, and the preliminary Recommendations Report.
2. Earth Day event with mayors on April 22nd, which is also the date of next Youth Climate Strike.

Adjournment

Chair Stausboll adjourned the meeting at 6:15pm.
